Newsletter for Careerforce Registered Assessors

July 2016

Welcome to the July newsletter for Careerforce Assessors. In this issue we look at REAL Observers. We also introduce you to the Workforce in Action programme as well as the upcoming REAL Assessor training and peer moderation workshops. Now you can also access archive copies of this newsletter on the Careerforce website.

REAL Observers play a significant role

Assessors who attend REAL assessor training are guided through the Observer-Assessor relationship and are coached on how Observers in their organisations can be called upon to provide naturally occurring evidence.

REAL assessors will have access to Observer training resources so they can support their Observers to provide the REAL evidence they need in order to make assessment decisions. We call them REAL Observers. For more information, please visit the REAL Observers page on our website here.

Learn more about actions to develop the Kaiāwhina workforce

The Kaiawhina workforce programme is a partnership between Careerforce and Health Workforce New Zealand. It sets out a 20-year vision and a 5-year action plan (2015-2020) for the development of the health and disability Kaiāwhina (non-regulated workforce).

Work is well underway towards achieving the 5-year actions for the health and disability sectors. (Click on the wheel to the left for details).

It's about getting recognition and support for roles like yours and the trainees you support.
